This is the famous lams case. On the day Mr. Frick was shot Private lams of the tenth regiment, which was stationed at Homestead, came out of his tent and gave three cheers for the "man who shot Frick." This remark was overheard by Lieut, Col. Streator and for the offense Ijams was first tied up by the thumbs and then his head shaved and he was drummed out of camp. He then preferred charges against the officers of the regiment for assault and battery and aggra-

When the case was called this morning the court room was crowded with military officers The prosecution was represented by S. P. lams. an uncle of the plaintiff, and J. P. Watson, and the defendants by Edward Robbins, J. M. Buchanan, A. S. Sprowis and J. McBraken. Young lams was present and showed no ill effects of his treatment, his hair having grown long again. Attorney Sprowls made a motion to quash the indictments, claiming that under the act of April 13, 1887, providing for a tribunal of the National Guard, the court had no jurisdiction.

Judge Porter decided to hear the testimony

quashing the indictments.

The work of choosing a jury was then taken up, and after an hour the twelve men were se cured, after which the court overruled the motion to quash the indictments, with leave to raise the question during the trial, and an ad-journment was taken for dinner.

THE CASE OF SMALLWOOD. All the Testimony in and the Arguments

In the case of the colored boy, Edward Smallwood, charged with the murder of Edward Tinney near 20th and L streets on February 15 last, in the Criminal Court, Justice Cox, yesterday afternoon the testimony for the government was closed.

Mr. Taylor, who is associated with Maj. Walker for the defandant, opened the case and not contradicting the fact of the killing claimed that the prisoner was not morally responsible. He would show, he said, that his father, Albert, was insane and in 1880 while laboring under a homicidal mania killed the prisoner's mother in Goat alley and was sent to the insane asylum, where he died.

POLICY PEOPLE FRIGHTENED.

Three Places Said to Be Still in Active Operation. The policy people are thoroughly frightened. and perhaps justly so, for District Attorney Cole has decided to bring them all into court and make them answer the charges.

The recent action of Capt. Cole, it is thought, caused a decrease in the policy business in this city, as many of the writers became frightened and quit work and the backers of the game in Virginia became more careful in their operations.

According to reports there are two As the hearse passed through the high gates shops at "Monte Carlo," or Jackson City, at Blaine. He came in unobtrusively and sat | ceased jingling their bells, all traffic was stopped, | run with open doors without much, if any, at G. Blaine. Detective Sutherland has a warrant for Messrs. Nelson and Fosters, alleged backers of one of the "Monte Carlo" firms.

Although there has been a decrease in the business it is stated that some writers are still at work, and are gathering in the hard-earned nickels and dimes of the colored and white people who live about the alleys. When the writers know that the officers are on the alert they confine their operations to the alle s, it is said, b cause they feel that they are less likely to get caught.
Since the raid on Horbach's place here several played activity in that direction.

There was nothing done in court today in he policy cases except that Detective Suther-land and Policeman Grealey, who are under charges of promoting policy, as published in yesterday 8 STAR, gave bail in the sum of $500 each for their appearance.
It was thought that counsel for the accused officers would appear in court today and ask that a day be set for the trial, but no such mo-tion was made and the case has not yet been set for any particular day.

It was reported that the charge against the officers was to have been nolle prossed this morning and the officers objected to such a way of ending the case,
"We have been accused," said Detective Sutherland to a STAR reporter, "and we want a vindication at the hands of the court."

Mr. Mullowney, the prosecuting attorney, was asked about the rumor that he had intended nolle prossing the case and he said there was no truth in it.

Jerome Colliflower, whose name appears of the information as complainant in the case of the accused officers, called on the prosecuting the accused omcers, cancer on the product a torney yesterday afternoon and wanted to withdraw the charge. He said that if he had sworn to the information he did if through a misapprehension, as he did not want to appear as the prosecuting witness.

Mr. Mullowney, who made out the information, said that the witness was sworn in the usual manner and that his answers were perfectly satisfactory and sufficient on which to file the charge.
